

Our nation is moving toward two societies, one black, one white, separate and unequal. — President's Commission on Civil Disorders.

Audette SGA President

Robert Audette, incoming president of the SGA, is a member of the class of 1969 majoring in special education. Concerning next year's council, Bob has many definite plans.

Foremost in his program is a move to raise the image of the SGA among the students. Bob stated, "Students should feel free to come to the council with their problems, their ideas, and their support." Among his other objectives are a more efficient approach to planning the budget, more effective communication with the administration and faculty, and a forthcoming meeting of the newly-elected members of the council. Bob also expressed interest in the possibility of an SGA column in next year's Kampus Vue.

SGA's newly-elected vice-president, Linda Hansen is a history major, also a member of the class of '69. Talking about next year's council, Linda expressed the hope of a united goal among the council members. She feels that there is a vital need for more cooperation and more work among the SGA representatives. Linda also hopes that the standing committees established this year will be issued definite responsibilities and used more effectively.

John Marion, SGA's new treasurer, is an elementary education major, class of '69. His first project will be working on next year's budget. He trusts that the budget will be completed and passed this spring.

The new corresponding secretary is Ann Miller, elementary education major, class of '69. Sharon Colburn, special education major, class of '69, will be recording secretary.

City Police Enforce New Parking Law

Announcement was made by Captain of Police, Alton F. Laprade, that there has been a change in the Ordinances of the City of Fitchburg relating to prohibited parking. It is a known fact that parking spaces on the streets in the immediate areas of the College are taxed to the limit. However, the new ordinance states in part that no parking will be allowed within five feet of a driveway. This new addition will affect students at the College and no warning signs will be erected at the various driveways.

It should be noted that this ordinance does not come under the jurisdiction of the Campus

Freshman Special Project A Success

On February 22nd, the freshmen members of the Special Education Club sponsored a social at the Paul A. Dever State School in Taunton, Mass.

The party was held in the school game room. Fifty patients attended ranging in age from twelve to twenty years and fifteen Fitchburg freshmen represent the club.

Socializing and dancing with the children filled most of the afternoon hours. Refreshments were served and at four o'clock the students returned home.

O'Leary Advocates Realization Of Student Rights,

Highlighting the MSCSGA conference last Friday evening was an address by James O'Leary, assistant Attorney General of Massachusetts. Head of the civil rights division of the Commonwealth, Mr. O'Leary stated that two grave inconsistencies occur in today's society. College students are so socially aware of the problems and world affairs not present in their immediate environment. Viet Nam and civil rights, that they acquiesce to the shoddiest procedures affecting their personal rights. Secondly, the academic community is supposed to be liberal but condones these infringements on student rights, thus opposing their own system.

Essentially, the college student should be more aware of the Fourteenth Amendment forbidding the deprivation of rights without due process of law. Mr. O'Leary questioned the extent to which the administration is bound to observe this "due process of law."

There are three theories which administrators assume in their relationship with the students. In loco parentis places parental responsibility on the administration. However, this policy is not feasible with the administrator-student ratio as it now stands.

A second theory deals with the concept of education's being a privilege and not a right, thus it is not defensible in a court of law. The contract theory holds that a student and college or university enter into a mutually binding contract. The latter agrees to grant a diploma upon completion of the former's prescribed work. The draw-back to this theory evolves from the fact that most students entering college are minors and contracts made with minors are not binding.

Mr. O'Leary's personal theory requires that students and administrators become cognizant of personal rights. He illustrated his lecture with several important court decisions in this area.

Mr. O'Leary is well qualified to discuss various aspects of jurisprudence. A 1962 honor graduate of UMass, he attended London School of Economics in England from '62 to '63.

ATTENTION: '68 MALE STUDENTS ARRANGE FOR TEACHER DEFERMENT

If you are planning to teach next September you should arrange to have the principle of the school or the School Committee forward the following information in the Selective Service System form presented below.

SELECTIVE Service System SUBJECT: TEACHER DEFERMENT

Our records show you are presently being deferred on the basis of your occupation as a teacher. In the near future this local board will review your case. If your school desires consideration for your deferment for the 1968-69 school year, their written request must be submitted to this local board within the next 15 days.

With regard to the school's request for your deferment, the following specific information must be furnished:

1. School where employed;
2. Teaching level (grade);
3. The subject(s) you are teaching;
4. The amount of time you devote to classroom instruction;
5. Time spent in, and explanation of, other duties, if any;
6. What efforts has school made to replace you; and,
7. Evidence that your induction would have a material effect on the school's ability to carry out its mission.

It must be emphasized that the mere fact you may have signed a contract for the 1968-69 school year will not justify your deferment. Neither will a request that you be deferred because it would be inconvenient to replace you, warrant your occupational deferment at this time.

REDRESS THE DRESS CODE

In last week's editorial; Code Should Be Changed, we mentioned the reaffirmation of the dress code by the administration. We also noted that an increasing number of students have disregarded this code. We will present a defense for their actions and offer a proposal to eliminate the current code.

There exists a contradiction between our rights as citizens of this country and as students at FSC. The national constitution guarantees us the right to liberty and representation on the legislative councils. No such liberty or representation exists here with respect to the dress code. Since the code is concerned with student dress, it should have its origin from the students through their legislative unit, the SGA Council. They should also establish and man the machinery which decides when an infraction has occurred and what corrective measures should be taken.

We have conducted an informal survey of other state colleges to determine their actions in this area. It was learned that student-written and enforced codes are in effect at Boston, Bridgewater, Framingham, Lowell, and Westfield State Colleges and Massachusetts College of Art. North Adams' student government has a proposed student dress code before their college president. Salem, Worcester and Fitchburg are the only state colleges which continue to have administrative formulated codes.

If we intend that our SGA is to be more than "keeper of the lollipops," we must demand that they secure the basic rights of liberty and representation. If we are willing to capitulate on this issue or to procrastinate further, we have no reason to expect that the quantity, quality, and size of our lollipops will change.

A questionnaire has been included in this issue so that we may ascertain the thinking of the students, faculty, and administration on the dress code. In order for this poll to reflect the consensus, more than 50% of the student body should respond. This magnitude of expression will clearly represent a mandate for the Council to act in our behalf to secure those necessary freedoms which we do not now possess as students at FSC.

Dress Code Questionnaire

Do we need a dress code?

How extensive do you think the dress code should be? Check one number as a cut-off place. For example, if you check #4, then you will be including in the dress code numbers 1-4 and excluding numbers 5-9. The dress regulations are graded from formal to informal.

CONCERT OPEN TO PUBLIC CONCLUDING ACTIVITIES

Culminating Junior Week-end which includes a dinner dance on Friday evening, April 5, an informal get-together at the Red Barn in Leominster, Saturday, April 6, on Sunday, April 7, at 3 p. m. in Weston Auditorium will be the Chambers Brothers in concert presented jointly by the Junior Class and the SGA. Two free tickets to this performance are included in the $15 per couple package deal being offered this week in Thompson Lobby (to juniors only).

The Chambers Brothers reputation for a successful and enjoyable union of gospel music with rock 'n roll into what has been termed holy roll gained national dimension in 1961 while entertaining at the Ash Grove a center of ethnic music in Los Angeles.

That engagement and the acclaim which followed netted them coffeehouse bookings on the West Coast for the next four years — until the group was invited to participate in the 1965 Newport Folk Festival. Their newly developed electric sound was the hit of the festival, and they were soon swamped with offers for innumerable appearances. They were, in fact, so busy that it took them a year to get back to the West Coast. As Variety (March 23, 1966) pointed out: "The group has cultivated a following . . . the customers not only dance, they listen and applaud, which is an accomplishment these days."

JH Science Club Needs Advisors

Science majors on all levels, there is an immediate educational opportunity to work with junior high school students on campus. Advisors are needed for small groups of 7, 8, and 9 grade science club members. These groups would be confined to your areas of specialization: life science chemistry, or physics (including astronomy). Approximately one hour per week is all that is required.

The Science Club consists of some 35, 7, 8, and 9 grade students of assorted shapes, sizes, and abilities, but all possessing an interest in science. One of the basic requirements for memberships is the undertaking of a real scientific investigation. It would seem that with all the advantages which the Lab School possesses in terms of facilities and people, we should be able to have a truly meaningful Science Club.

Working in an advisory capacity could be a particularly valuable and rewarding experience for college freshman and sophomores in that it provides an opportunity to work informally with students prior to methods and student teaching periods. Please act as soon as possible! Contact either Mr. Desmond at the junior high school or Dr. Schmidt of the Biology department. Act quickly!

Colleges Should Offer Money Managing Course

Kenneth R. Gottlier, a representative from the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, spoke on "Finances and the College Student" at March 12th's All College Period in Weston Auditorium.

Mr. Gottlier stated that since there are many misconceptions about the various saving and borrowing practices, every college should offer a course in the management of money. Habit and system, he said, are the basic tenets for successful money management. Those who earn from $95-$140 per week should allot 5% for savings, $140-$195, 6 to 8% and $225-$400, 10%. Maintaining a budget, he added can also help one to live within the limits of his income, spend his money wisely, and put aside some in a savings account.

In selecting a savings bank one should first compare the interest rates, interest charges, number of free transactions allotted, penalties against insufficient funds, interest rates on loans and should check whether the bank collects debts and pays bills.

The handling of money, he stated, is best done by individual checking accounts to see how the money is being spent and for tax purposes.

In his discussion of finances, Mr. Gottlier gave general information about the management of money but omitted mentioning the availability of funds and jobs for students, which perhaps would have been of more interest to the college audience.

1968 SAX BIGGER AND BETTER

Students at FSC can look forward to a bigger and better Sax yearbook for 1968. Sax editor James Besarkarski noted that there will be 18 pages of phased color, a feature which has not been done for years. The bright green cover of the book will boast a modernistic design by artist Geraldine DiMassa. Another important aspect is that the cost for the book will be $4.50 each, approximately $1.50 less per copy per person over past yearbook prices. Only those who make a $2.00 deposit in advance will receive a book.

Anyone interested in acting as co-editors or business manager may contact Jim Besarkarski, Box 83, as soon as possible. Remember, Sax 1968 is going to be something big!

Communication And Involvement Keys To New Urban Changes

From February 29 to March 3, the Sixth Annual Inter-collegiate Conference on Urban Affairs took place at Long Island University. FSC's Professor Grainger Browning, Barbara Buckley, Daniel Duffy, and David Santoro attended the convention entitled: "The Urban Environment: Challenge and Responsibility."

"How was it?" was the prevailing question during the conference. This is a challenging question because it demands an evaluation on the part of the one answering it. It demanded an evaluation of not only material presented to the four representatives, but also an evaluation of FSC's relationship to Fitchburg.

Structured conferences on Friday and Saturday mornings covered a variety of areas. "The City and Its Communities" was attended by Dan Duffy; "The City and Its Urban Minorities", by Dr. Browning; "Urban Poverty", by Barbara Buckley; and "The City and the Urban College", by Dave Santoro. On Saturday the FSC delegates also attended discussions titled "Urban Health", "The City and Urban Renewal", and "The Urban Dropout."

The conference by no means stopped there. During casual discussions and social activities, the question "How was it?" was raised again and again. Students were heard drawing on the information of such academic notables as Richard A. Cloward, Professor of Social Work, Columbia University; James M. Fitch, Professor of Architecture, Columbia; C. Eric Lincoln, Professor of Sociology, Union Theological Seminary; and Professor Leon Sinder, Chairman of the department of Anthropology, Long Island University; and Betty Friedan, author of the famed The Feminine Mystique.

FSC's delegates did not return with the magic formula to cure the ills of any city. They did return, however, with two basic ideas. First, if any inroads are to be made, the communication between those in places of responsibility and those who are needed to affect urban changes, must be fortified. Second, the college is urbanly integrated and must and can become involved in the city's activities. The student delegates would like to publicly thank the St. Vincent de Paul Society for its financial assistance.

Linda Hansen then reported on the Mass. State College Student Government Association to be conducted at FSC, March 15 and 16. She announced the need for three more discussion leaders for the two Friday sessions. Later, her request that twenty parking spaces be reserved for MSGSGA delegates on Friday was granted.

A motion was then introduced that the SGA refuse the idea of paying student library help from SGA funds given to the library for books. Tom Christensen briefly reviewed the main points of the previous week's discussion of the matter, after which the motion was voted on and defeated.

The Adelphians' request to use the commuters' lounge for a fashion show on Wednesday April 17 was then brought before the Council. It was decided to refer the matter to the Commuters' Board.

Next was the Senior class request to be allowed to go before the Financial Committee to request more funds for graduation. Linda Machler explained that since the class is too large for Weston Auditorium and funds are insufficient to allow outdoor ceremonies, it was decided to rent Fitchburg Theater at an approximate cost of $400. To do this, more money is needed. Permission to go before the Financial Committee was granted.

Leon Kurasowicz, representing the Logos Honor Society, then asked that the Society be given permission to use the 100 dollars given to it by the SGA for private lectures that would not necessarily be open to all. The money was originally intended for the annual spring assembly. Permission was granted.

Lastly, Linda Machler suggested that the March 18 meeting begin at 6 p. m. rather than at the usual time of 6:30 p. m. This would enable Council members to attend Miss Tater's presentation at Palmer Hall. This was approved.

* Letters received in baseball

FSC's baseball team under the direction of Mr. Norman Carson has spent the last three weeks in a rigorous physical conditioning program. Coach Carson has been impressed by the spirit and hustle of the candidates for the various positions.

The lettermen of the club, Pete Breton, Charlie Callahan, Jim O'Day, Charlie Ferrara, Dave Hay, Guy Hilander, Donnie Starr, and Dave Kiernan, are all shooting for starting positions. But according to Coach Carson, these positions must be won on individual talents.

The Falcons open up with a double-header against Bridgewater State on April 13 at Bridgewater, and the team hopes to take both games.

The Falcons are working with a young nucleus, as Jim O'Day is the only senior in the club. After coming off a season which was the best in the last six years, the young ball club looks promising.

Track Team Meets

FSC's track team had their first informal meeting on Friday, March 15, even though only 25 men attended. Coach Settele reported that he expected 40-50 men to participate. The first meeting was preliminary. The coach stressed what was expected of the individual athletes and tried to work out specific training periods.

WIB News

Women's Intramural Basketball has reached the midpoint of the season. Basketball chairmen, Shirley Griffin and Judy McTiernan, have coordinated the program in which seven teams are competing for the championship. The games which are played on Mondays and Thursdays from 4-5:30 p. m. are scheduled to end the first week in April. Games that have been canceled will be played after the last scheduled game.
